Save the bay: Council urges EBMUD to continue waste treatment

By JUDY POLUMBAUM

ALBANY — The Albany City Council went on record Monday against a plan under consideration by East Bay Municipal Utility District officials to disperse with secondary treatment of sewage draining into San Francisco Bay.

Prompted by a request from the Sierra Club as well as urging by Helen Burke, who represents Albany and several other cities on EBMUD's board of directors, the council passed a resolution urging the agency to abandon the plan in the interests of pollution control.

"If you go back to primary treatment only," Burke told the council, "you're essentially dumping more pollutants in the bay... There's going to be more junk in the bay, if you will."

EBMUD completed a modern secondary wastewater treatment plant in 1979, but EBMUD's general manager proposed a return to primary treatment last fall, saying it would save $4 million annually in energy costs. Such a move would be possible under new federal rules allowing districts that discharge sewage into saline water to apply for a "secondary waiver."

The EBMUD board, with Burke objecting, agreed to pursue such a waiver and allocated nearly half a million dollars for a study to lay the grounds for the application. However, the board subsequently backtracked under pressure from environmental and labor groups, including EBMUD employees. At a meeting last week, it cancelled the study and also voted to hold a public hearing on the matter July 26.

The resolution adopted by the Albany council expresses support for "present EBMUD wastewater policies" and urges the board "to reconsider and withdraw its application for a waiver of secondary treatment."

Albany negotiates contract issues with teachers' union

By CHARLES PELTON

ALBANY — The Albany Unified School District and the Albany Teachers Association won't be able to negotiate salary issues until the district learns how much money it will get from the state.

The two sides met early this month to consider modifying their present contract, which expires June, 1985.

Bill Savage, new president of the teachers' group, said no discussion of salary increases will be possible until later in the summer. Savage is the district's first teacher and vocational education coordinator at the high school.

Superintendent Stephen A. Goldstone, who described the June 3 negotiations as "an introductory type meeting," emphasized that negotiations on monetary matters are fruitless until "we know what kind of money we are getting."

Perhaps the most controversial issue facing negotiators is the dis-

RUSD board debates class emergency dismissal policy

By BARBARA ERICKSON

RICHMOND Unified school board members, prompted by union complaints, will look at who decides when teachers and students should remain in classrooms after the power goes off and the furnace fails.

Incidents at two schools this past winter showed the need for a new policy in emergency situations, according to Ernie Ciarrocchi, executive director of the United Teachers of Richmond.

Teachers complained about chilly classrooms in Portola Junior High Jan. 3, he said, when the heat failed and the building temperature never went above 55 degrees.

And at Pinole Valley High School on March 4, Ciarrocchi said, a power outage left the school in darkness the entire day. "It was not a particularly safe situation," he said.

Michael Prenter, UTR president and a Pinole Valley teacher, said, "Some kids sat there five or six hours. That's not education. That's custodial

The Open Forum accepts essays on topics of general or community interest. Send submissions of no more than 750 words — three typed, double-spaced pages — to Editor, Times Journal, 1247 Solano Ave., Albany 94706. This week's column is from Emily B. Fine of Albany.

YOU may not realize it, but your local community colleges face a crisis. The budgetary crunch in Sacramento is threatening to cut off funds and possibly impose fees on Vista College and all the other two-year colleges in the state.

The services rendered by the two year community colleges are important for many reasons. First, for hundreds of thousands of individuals, they are the only entry to higher education. They constitute the only free educational enterprise beyond high school.

The community colleges are, in fact, the largest post-secondary school system in the country and only in California have they remained free. One should not surrender what has contributed to make California the golden state.

Second, the community colleges offer students who want to prepare themselves for the workaday world an opportunity to acquire skills.

El Cerrito veterinarian: have van, will travel

Lee Prutton brings the laboratory to Fido

By BETH MENDE

EL CERRITO — It may be a dog's life, but when it comes to house calls, four-footed creatures have one up on their masters.

Dr. Lee Prutton, the new owner of the Abbey Pet Hospital and Mobile Clinic in El Cerrito, will do for his patients what most people-doctors won't do for theirs: He comes to them at home, six days a week, and whenever else an emergency arises.

The mobile clinic service, he says, is popular among the elderly and homebound, and those who cannot get time off from work or simply don't want the hassle of bringing their animal to the vet.

It also gives Prutton, 30, a chance to work more closely with pet-owners.

"I like animals," he said. "I also like dealing with people a lot, which is what half of veterinary medicine is about."

"If someone comes into the clinic and sits in a sterile room in front of you and you only have 15 minutes with them, it's hard to tell who they are, where they're coming from and what they're all about."

"But if you walk into their house, you can pick it up just like that. You can find out a lot about people very quickly."

Animals, like people, Prutton says, are affected by their environments, and sometimes, by going into a home, he can better determine the cause of the pet's illness.

"I always try to make recommendations," he said of work with pet owners. But he stressed he is careful not to step on toes.

"That's their lifestyle and it's kind of like telling someone to stop smoking," he said.

There are two other mobile clinics in the East Bay, Prutton said. He operated a mobile clinic in San Francisco specializing in cats before taking over the Abbey Hospital. But only his van is equipped to handle surgeries, lab work and other procedures that may be required in emergency situations, he said.

Most of his home visits are routine, however, and are made between the hours of noon to 2 p.m. and 6 to 8 p.m., Mondays through Fridays, and afternoons on Saturdays.

Housecalls generally run $25 each, plus the cost of shots and medication. Senior citizens and members of the Alameda Animal Co-op are given a 10 percent discount.

On a typical day, Prutton will visit dogs like Bullet, a part-German Shepherd in Richmond in need of a rabies shot. Bullet's owner is an elderly woman, dependent on the mobile clinic because she does not know how to drive.

Not all days are typical; sometimes he travels to central Berkeley to visit another elderly woman with transportation problems, problems compounded by the fact that she owns 50 cats.

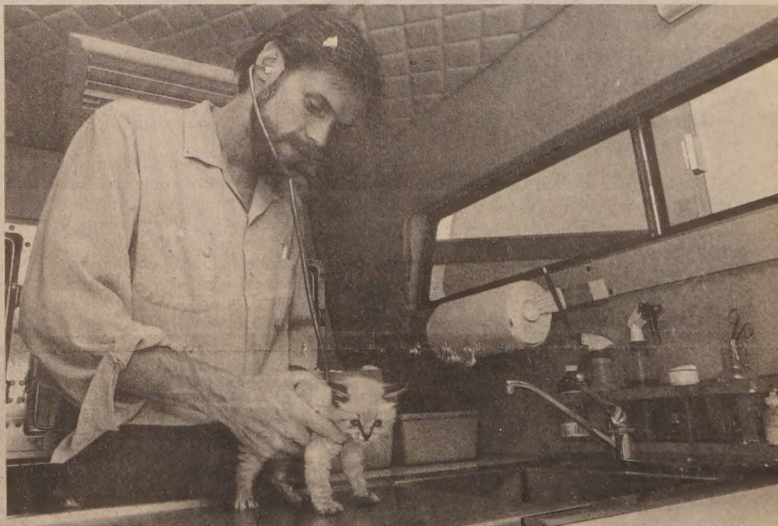

For the better part of an hour, Prutton walks through the house, checking over each cat for ear mites, urinary infections, leukemia and a host of other problems the owner has identified.

He also suggested, as he has in the past, that the owner consider spaying or neutering her cats.

"There are too many homo-sapiens in the world and not enough cats," she replied.

From experience, Prutton finds cats easier to treat at

• Approved an agreement with Oakland Scavenger Company which will bring the city more than $30,000 a year as its share of surcharges paid by San Francisco for use of the Alameda Landfill.

San Francisco has a contract to dump at the landfill for at least five years beginning this fall. In addition to paying Oakland Scavenger for the service, it must pay an extra $3 per ton to compensate other localities that use the facility for "lost landfill capacity." Albany will receive 1.88 percent of that revenue.

• Approved a $32,000 insurance program for fiscal 1983-84 providing the same coverage as the city's current insurance but at a lower cost. Worked out by Poulton Associates of Oakland, the city's insurance broker, the new program will save the city $1,557. The broker also has proposed an alternative general liability carrier which would save an additional $5,416. The council authorized city staff to investigate that alternative and make the change if it provides the same coverage as the current policy.

• Approved a maintenance agreement with Cadillac Ambulance Company of Richmond to service and repair the Albany Fire Department's ambulance. The annual service fee would be $200 plus parts, and other repair work would cost $30 per hour. Fire Chief Horace "Mike" Koepke told the council that, besides specializing in ambulance work, the company has substantially lower rates than what the city has been paying elsewhere.

• Approved the sale of two used police cars for $1,200 for both — less than half the price the city had sought. Classified ads had listed one of the cars for $1,200 and the other for $1,500. Administrative Officer William Haden said the city received only one offer. The buyer was Tim Farquhar, son of Haden's secretary, Norma Farquhar.

• Held a public hearing on the use of $168,000 in federal revenue sharing funds the city expects to receive in fiscal 1983-84. In past years, revenue sharing was used for a variety of special projects. But Haden indicated that this year, the bulk of that money may have to go into the city's main operating budget to make up for lost property tax revenue. The county currently is contemplating withholding as much as $163,000 from Albany's share of property taxes under proposed state legislation that would penalize cities which have used property taxes to help subsidize pension plan costs.

The only member of the public who testified at the hearing, Dario Meniketti, suggested that any federal funds left over might be used for tree-planting and waste receptacles on city streets.

Local artists at SF Fair

The Nojimas will show their ceramic work, and Khendup will exhibit woodworking in the fair, which marks its 30th anniversary that weekend.

Artists will be showing original work in painting, sculpture, handmade clothing, soapstone carving and basketweaving. The artists will all be present to discuss their work.

Hospital gives doctor unusual

EL CERRITO — An unusual commemorative and treasured gift from Alta Bates Hospital was presented to Richard Nagle, M.D. of El Cerrito in recognition of his generous support of the Alta Bates building campaign.

The gift was a sterling silver soup cup, which, for more than 50 years, was one of those that once graced the patient food trays at the Berkeley hospital. Only 23 of the rare cups remain and are considered hospital treasures.

Nagle is a neurosurgeon and has a private practice in Berkeley.

With a goal of raising $3.3 million, the building fund campaign supports Alta Bates' efforts to replace structurally hazardous buildings and three buildings which include treatment areas for patients with heart and lung disease, metabolic problems, cancer, cell disease, and maternity complications.

The $3.3 million will serve as down payment on the lowest interest rate on the $40 million the hospital must borrow to complete the replacement project. The savings accounts to cover the total project cost.

Without these skills, our youth, which should be our most precious resource, will swell the growing ranks of drifters and unemployed.

Third, in a community such as ours with a large older population, many of the courses offered by Vista College have provided an enriching experience for those with scant financial resources.

For example, a course given at the senior center in Albany on Shakespeare's drama by Lou Bohlen, written up in your own paper a little while ago, has attracted not only young people earning college credits, but also those of advanced years who take it for fun. Is there anything wrong with that?

It is these older people who are hurt most by inflation, because they are on fixed incomes and their medical costs continue to soar. The denial of one of few pleasures left to them would be a great pity.

What can be done? It is not too late for positive action by you and me and all who value the two-year college and the role it plays in our community. Senate bill 851 and its companion measure in the Assembly, AB 150 will soon be voted on.

Both bills restore the $110 million in the governor's budget for additional funding to support the increase their services will be needed when the terms by rising tuition in their local community colleges.

I hope you will join me in letters of support to our representatives in the State Assembly and to Governor George Meijer. Thank you for your support to our mutual concern for community colleges — our future.

trict's attempt to win more flexibility with regard to maximum class sizes.

Presently, the 28 student limit for kindergarten to third grade, the 29 student limit for grades four to seven and the 150 total student limit for those who teach grades eight through twelve cannot be exceeded by more than two pupils. The administration would like the flexibility to add a third extra student if necessary.

Savage, who calls the issue "the most contentious we'll face," believes that any attempt to increase class size only serves to the detriment of all students.

"As you raise the number of students in a class," he said, "you decrease student-teacher interaction."

"We're concerned only with flexibility," Goldstone countered. "We're not interested in increasing class size."

One item which the teachers' association is proposing concerns equalizing hours the Children's Center teachers work. At present, some work five; others seven hours.

According to Children's Center representative and teacher Barbara Rogers, all of the center's teachers hired after 1977 work five hours.

"The extra (sixth) hour is important for class preparation and meetings," she said. "It would give us time to make a more structured program, would be better for the kids and better for staff morale."

Rogers noted that the center has "changed (drastically) from a day care center during World War II. It has evolved into a real academic program for the kids."

Other items which the teachers wish to see modified include:

• The doubling — from $250 to $500 — of reimbursement for teachers' personal property when it is damaged in the course of use as part of an approved school program.

• Increasing the health benefits of retired employees.

• Expanding the scope and definitions of the kinds of leave which a teacher may take. Maternity leave would no longer be considered disability leave. A revised contract would also introduce the idea of paternity leave to the Albany schools.

In spite of the controversial nature of some of the issues which the negotiations are facing, all sides emphasize reasonableness and moderation.

"We are away from the pattern of typical negotiations with typical unions with the district coming in with low or no (budget increases) and the union coming in with high requests," Goldstone said. "We're both more reasonable, more mid-range."

"Both sides of the table came feeling real good with one another," Rogers said.

Contract negotiations are due to resume Aug. 3.

Prenter and Clavin's board to give principals authority to decide when to send home during emergencies the present policy leaves the decision to the superintendent said, principals are close to a solution.

Superintendent Richard said that the district's decision in effect since the late 1960s for principals to notify the superintendent who would notify the superintendent.

Sending students home, said, is a last resort. "We have a problem like this," he said. "The district does not have students except in extreme cases, because secondary students wander into the classrooms and cause trouble. Elementary students may be home to supervise them."

When Verde School brought the last school year, the district sent buses and cars each child home individually, case, he said, the principal had the spot to close the school and the situation was so critical.

The policy is flexible in extreme cases, Lovette said. Board members agreed principals should consult with the administration, but they also report back in order to make the policy and adopt a final decision.

Relax...you are not smoking...you are losing weight

Hypnotist offers self-help classes

By JIM GRODNIK

EL CERRITO — When Jean Richards teaches her course in exploring past lives, she's not talking about unexplored territory. She recalls being buried alive in a mission in the 1700's.

Richards, 47, who teaches at the El Cerrito Community Center, and in her home, also gives classes in how to lose weight, how to quit smoking, how to read auras and self-hypnosis.

She uses hypnosis, which she calls a relaxation technique, to teach people to lose weight and give up smoking. A former pack-and-a-half-a-day smoker, Richards became intrigued with hypnosis when it enabled her to quit easily.

Her recollection of a former life came in 1967 when she was visiting a Carmel mission with a friend. When she entered the mission she became weak and depressed.

"Tears were rolling down my cheeks, and I didn't know why," she said. "I blurted out to my friend Amy, you were my little girl in another life."

Richards said then she touched a wooden chest on the mission floor and got an electric shock. She realized it had been her chest. Then, as if she were recovering from amnesia, she remembered everything.

She said in her former life she had been 29, and the mother of eight children, when she contracted smallpox. "They thought I was dead and buried me alive," she said.

Richards had always been afraid of crowded elevators, and after this experience the claustrophobia was gone.

"That was the turning point in my life," said Richards. "When I left the mission, I could get up on a soapbox and I believe in past lives."

The class in mental excursions to the past resembles a slumber party on a gymnasium floor. Participants bring pillows, blankets and a lunch and spend seven hours concentrating on five different periods in history.

According to Richards, a black man once discovered he had been an African warrior in his former life. He realized that he had been killed by a black panther. The man had been allergic to cats, but after his recollection his allergy vanished.

Richards was sn't taking credit for the cure. "It may be just something from the subconscious that allowed him to get rid of the allergy. My job isn't to prove to the world there are past lives. I let people make up their own minds."

Thirty days after her experience in the Carmel mission, Richards and her daughter moved from Seattle to Monterey. She joined the Rosicrucians, a secret occult society, and took a course in hypnosis.

She was first impressed with hypnosis when she saw a hypnotist in action when she was 17. "He had a very set man doing the hula on stage," she said. "He had people doing things they'd have never done without a few links."

Richards said hypnosis reduces withdrawal symptoms in those giving up smoking and that 85 percent of those who take her three-week class are able to quit. She said 75 percent of those who take her class are not smoking a year later.

To hypnotize people, she has them stare at a picture of concentric circles while she speaks soothingly of relaxing beaches and streams. "It is a little mental vacation," she said.

The technique for helping people lose weight is to put a post-hypnotic suggestion — an automatic "no thank you" whenever food is offered.

Richards, who has been on the television programs "Real People" and "Evening Magazine," lives in Pittsburg. She is on the staff of recreation departments in Walnut Creek, Concord and Pleasant Hill.

It was a family member that gave her her first mystical experience. In 1959, when Richards was 23, she had a vision of her grandfather, who had been dead a year.

She said her grandfather appeared in front of her and a dark winter night. He was wearing big overalls and a blue work shirt. He had died after a long illness, but Richards saw him as "the picture of health."

The image lasted for 15 seconds. "I'd never believed in ghosts or anything like that," she said. "I hadn't been thinking or anything." Her friend also saw the figure, she said, otherwise she would have tried to dismiss the incident.

Despite her experiences with the occult, Richards is a skeptic in one area — UFO's. "If you're around those people too much you'll be a believer," she said.

The weight reduction class begins June 22, and the smoking clinic begins July 13. Each is taught in three, one-and-a-half hour sessions and each costs $35 for residents, $38 for non-residents of El Cerrito.

The classes in sensing auras, past lives and self-hypnosis are all one-day sessions. Sensing auras is on June 18, and lives on July 23, and self-hypnosis class is taught on July 30 and Aug. 20. Fees are $27 for residents, $30 for non-residents.

To register for a class call the Community Center at 644-6747.

The seminar was sponsored by the American Institute for Foreign Study (AIFS) of Greenwich, Conn., the nation's largest sponsor of overseas travel and study programs for students and adult travelers.

In London, Hart, a Kensington resident and AIFS area administrator, joined educators from throughout the U.S. to discuss ways of implementing President Reagan's new International Youth Initiative for expanding youth exchange programs.

They also exchanged ideas with members of the British Parliament and William Waldegrave, Minister of High Education; visited Richmond College; and the American International College of London, a four-year liberal arts school with students from more than 60 countries.

Hart has served 16 years as an international education counselor for AIFS. She has traveled with local groups on French programs and touring programs throughout Europe and the Soviet Union. Anyone wishing information on summer study travel, can call her at 525-6498.

Make your business' money work as hard as your business.

Earn money market rates on the cash in your business and have checking account convenience, too.

If cash from your business sits idly in a checking account, you're simply losing money. But at Coast Federal, this money can make money.

That's because Coast Federal Savings' Commercial Investors Plan* keeps all your money working. Including the money normally kept in your business checking account. And it works hard enough to earn the day's current money market rate.

School honors two seniors

(The Albany High School Site Council's "Student Recognition Project" each month honors students whose contributions to the school or community have been previously unrecognized. These articles are written by Lynn Halcomb, the Site Council's publications assistant.)

The Albany High School site council's student recognition committee has chosen two seniors to receive special merit for May and June. Carol Baca and Bev Oleson, both seniors graduating in June, have made contributions to the school and community that have yet to be recognized.

Baca has been a service student in the attendance office since her sophomore year. She is also a member of the school's attendance referral board, which helps students who have severe attendance problems.

Baca has worked as a cook at Toraya Restaurant for the past two years. Her specialties are working the broiler and making tempura. "Clubs at school don't interest me. I enjoy working," she said.

Baca plans to attend California State College-Hayward in the fall where she will work toward becoming an accountant or laboratory technician.

Bev Oleson has focused on music during her years at Albany High. She has been in the band for four years, playing first chair clarinet. She plays second clarinet in the orchestra, and sings in the choir where she is section leader for altos and secretary. Oleson feels that both playing an instrument and listening are important to her.

As the mayor's wife in this year's production of "Music Man," Oleson provided what she termed "comic relief." In the past she had auditioned unsuccessfully, but this year she put a little extra into her try-out and was rewarded with the third female lead.

Oleson also plays bass clarinet with the Bay Area Wind Symphony.

Describing her years at Albany High, Oleson said "Albany High is the best high school. There are good classes and nice teachers compared to other schools; they understand."

Oleson said her future is unclear. She plans to decide at the end of the summer if she wants a job or to go to college.

Whither BART goeth?

Contra Costa County wants more service

The Metropolitan Transportation Commission will hold hearings beginning next month to settle a controversy over whether BART service should be extended farther into Contra Costa County or into San Mateo County.

Residents of the Pittsburgh-Antioch area say they want BART to provide transportation service to their community before expanding into San Mateo County.

Residents of Contra Costa County believe they are entitled to priority consideration for BART line extensions because they have been paying taxes into BART's coffers for 21 years, according to Bob Jones, head of the Pittsburgh Chamber of Commerce.

But San Mateo County residents argue that BART service to the Peninsula would make travel to and from San Francisco International Airport a lot easier.

"People are spinning their wheels and getting nowhere in this battle," MTC Chairman Quentin Kopp, a San Francisco supervisor, said. He said the MTC hearings are the logical forum for considering arguments related to the dispute. The MTC has the power to allocate federal and state funds for regional transportation systems, including BART. MTC is the agency which would decide to extend BART service would be extended.

Kopp said the Bay Area would receive BART mass transportation under a bill now awaiting final approval. He said, "The Reagan administration's limiting operating funds, has a different attitude on transportation starts."

He said he believes the Bay area will get BART to expand BART.

The public hearings on the BART expansion will begin July 8 in Martinez. Subsequent hearings will be held in Daly City, San Francisco, Santa Clara and Alameda County.

The MTC is expected to formulate a final recommendation on where to expand the BART system by the end of the year, Kopp said.

Ford settles fraud claim

By NORMAN COLBY

Hilltop Ford will pay $24,000 in penalties over the next two years as part of an out-of-court settlement of a civil action brought by the District Attorney's office.

District Attorney William O'Malley announced recently that an "amicable" settlement had been reached in the case. Four plaintiffs had originally filed a lawsuit alleging "fraud and deceit" against the company, and last October the District Attorney's office issued a civil injunction alleging unfair business practices by Hilltop Ford.

Included in the settlement is a $1,000 payment to the Department of Motor Vehicles to cover investigative costs.

The settlement was outlined in a consent decree without any determination of Hilltop Ford's actual liability or fault, O'Malley said. He added that allegations against Aaron Johnson, the firm's president, were dismissed.

The civil action alleged that the company, located at 3280 Auto Plaza, persuaded and encouraged customers to write down payment checks of $1,500 each on car purchases that both the salesperson and the customer knew would not clear the bank due to insufficient funds.

In each case, the customer was told by Hilltop Ford employees that the check would not be cashed, according to the allegations.

The employees are alleged to have promised that instead the check would be held as security until the customer could deposit sufficient funds. Or else, the employees allegedly promised that the check would be submitted to a credit company that would contact the customer and arrange for payment by monthly installments.

Neither happened, according to the District Attorney's allegations. Instead, the firm would return the checks.

When the checks didn't clear, Hilltop Ford turned them over to Telecredit Inc., a nationwide credit company that had a check-guarantee agreement with the company, according to the allegations.

Telecredit would then pay the company for the checks listed on the checks and in turn initiate collection against the customers.

O'Malley said the firm "cooperated fully" in the investigation. Johnson commented, "We were able to operate with the district attorney in this matter."

The cash penalties will be paid in seven installments over a period of two years.

In addition to the cash payments, the firm binds itself to an injunction against making misleading claims or undertaking unfair business practices with a penalty-payment period.

Kidnapper gets 7 years

Young Albany man gets maximum sentence

Despite a request for leniency from his victim, an 18-year-old Albany man has been sentenced to at least seven years in prison for kidnapping a woman in El Cerrito and robbing her of $100 and some inexpensive jewelry.

Harold J. Leggett, the son of an Albany policeman, was sentenced Thursday by Superior Court Judge Patricia Herron to life in prison, the term prescribed for armed kidnapping with intent to rob. He will be eligible for parole in seven years, said Deputy District Attorney Robert Kochly, who prosecuted the case.

On Aug. 20, 1982, Leggett, then 17, in the company of his 16-year-old girl friend, kidnapped Elizabeth Ann Daugherty as she was leaving her job at a doctor's office, according to court records.

Daugherty, who was seven months pregnant, was forced to drive the pair in her van through the Berkeley-Oakland hills. In downtown Oakland, the teenagers got out, after robbing the woman of $100 cash and $40 in jewelry.

In the trial, Daugherty, 25, testified Leggett pointed a gun at her and threatened to kill her. But she was not hurt.

In a letter to Judge Herron, Daugherty wrote, "I realize he committed a crime and should be punished but (he should) be sent to a place where he can be helped and rehabilitated."

The girlfriend, tried in juvenile court, was placed on probation. Had Leggett been tried as a juvenile, he could have been sentenced to a youth jail to his 25th birthday but the possibility of an earlier release would have been much greater.

Kochly said that in deciding to try Leggett as an adult the judge considered the seriousness of the accusation, the juvenile record of the defendant, how close he was to 18 whether he was living away from home, and the chances of rehabilitation.

Leggett has a record for theft, burglary and robbery. He was living outside home and told police he frequently used marijuana and cocaine and supported himself by selling marijuana.

Judge Richard Patsey forwarded him to adult court where on Jan. 4, in a non-jury trial, Judge Herron found him guilty.

Education border line

By BARBARA ERICKSON

CONCORD — County Office of Education board members were scheduled to meet this afternoon to review trustee district boundaries for possible changes before the November election.

The board called the study session after voting down a plan that would place two trustees outside their current districts.

The population within each of the seven trustee districts must not vary more than 4 percent from the others. According to the 1980 census, the population of the county has shifted, with some areas like Hercules showing rapid growth. The board needs to adopt new boundaries to maintain equal population groups.

The panel has until July 1 to set the new areas for the November election. At that time three seats will be up — for Areas 1 (Richmond-El Cerrito-Kensington), 4 (Concord-Pacheco) and 7 (Lafayette-Walnut Creek-Orinda-Danville).

They seats are now held, respectively, by Ned Clyde, William Dowling and board president Alice Johnson.

Last week the county Planning Department presented three new boundary plans to the board and the panel voted on one of them.

It would have placed Ms. Johnson and board member

Mary Ann Hruska outside the boundaries of their present areas. At the same time it would have created a new district which would bring Don Dyer and David Girard into the same area.

Ms. Hruska now represents Area 5 (South Concord and part of Walnut Creek); Dyer is in Area 2 (Pinole-San Pablo-El Sobrante-North Richmond); and Girard is in Area 3 (Pleasant Hill-Crockett-Martinez).

Area 6, the largest geographically, includes Antioch and Brentwood, and is represented by Charles Spears. Boundaries were last changed in 1972.

Workshop to aid writers

KENSINGTON — Poets and prose writers are invited to attend consulting workshops run by two published authors.

Individual consultations are also available. For registration, call Hightate Road Professional Services at 525-3248.

home than dogs. Dogs can be defensive of their owners and territory, which sometimes makes them more dangerous, he said.

Prutton prefers treating difficult animals in his clinic, where the new, unfamiliar environment makes them more vulnerable and easier to control.

The Abbey Pet Hospital, located at 11070 San Pablo Ave., offers, in addition to the usual veterinary services, a low-cost vaccination clinic. The clinic is open to the public any time during normal office hours on a walk-in basis.

The weapons debate

Mail bag

No reasonable person favors the proliferation of nuclear weaponry. Unfortunately, for all restraint to come from the non-communist world, as it has, particularly in recent years, only makes the free world nations more vulnerable and increases the likelihood of their becoming victims of attack.

The Soviets have no respect for weakness and success of their policies is fed by hope that the subversives, the naive, the ignorant and the fools of the West will prevail to produce inadequate defense and enable the Soviets to retain the superior might of their current nuclear weaponry.

Unfortunately the place where nuclear weaponry restraint is needed is the USSR and unfortunately the only successful producer of Soviet restraint has been an unmistakable deterrent capability of the West.

The chance of achieving annual reduction in nuclear weapons until all such weapons and production activities are eliminated from every country is remote. It will be even more remote if deterrent capability of the West is not unmistakably established. The high frontier defense supported by the president eventually may make many of the ominous threats from nuclear master the interim U.S. can much more reliably deter adequate deterrents than it can upon the worthiness of Communist governments and unenforceable on the U.S. in the USSR.

Inadequate Western deterrents pose a most hazardous in that the hazard is directly proportional to the rent inadequacy.

Coming up

Calligraphy classes offered for adults

Calligraphers Carla Tenret and Alice Sink will be teaching day and evening classes at Albany Adult School this summer for all levels of ability.

Calligraphy is elegant penmanship, the art of producing lettering style by hand with pen and ink. Both instructors have received advanced training from Friedrich Neugebauer, professor of lettering from Salzburg, Austria.

Two, three-week courses start June 13. Tenret will teach a daytime class Mondays and Wednesdays, from 1 to 3 p.m. A separate evening class will convene from 6:30 to 9:30 p.m. Both courses meet in Room 11 at MacGregor School, 601 San Gabriel Ave.

Sink will teach a six-week broad edge calligraphy class Thursday nights, 7 to 9 p.m., in Room 126 at Albany High School.

Tuition for the above courses ranges from $10 to $14, and may be paid at the first class meeting. For more information, please call 526-6811.

Fruits of summer

If all holds true, spring has sprung — sort of on the heels of summer and the easy life. Who said that? Just because we have less tendency to stew and roast, that doesn't mean we work less in the kitchen. Perhaps we simply transfer our chores to the patio and back yard.

We also change our menu formats and wisely so, to enjoy the abundant fruits and vegetables of the season. The Fresh Produce Council reports that California has made it through one of the worst winters of the century with good supplies of fruit.

Grapes, nectarines, peaches, apricots and cherries are steadily increasing in production while prices are dropping accordingly. California Bing cherries are around and grapes are coming in from the desert districts. Strawberries are big, but I do hope they ripen more evenly than the ones I've seen of late. And oh, the melons are in.

Melon lore

Cantaloupes (or rather a form of melon brought from Persia) so enchanted an early Roman emperor, that he ordered his gardeners to raise them near his villa at Cantalupo.

The melon was a fruit unknown to the western hemisphere until the Europeans brought it here. Historians believe that what the early conquistadores took for melons were really squashes. Anyway, commercial production of melons did not develop until the turn of the century. That fact is a bit surprising for those of us who take the melon for granted.

Melons, by the way, do not sweeten after picking as some fruits do when placed in the sun to continue ripening. Their sugar content begins to decrease as soon as they are picked. They may soften but will not ripen further. If you buy a melon which shows damaged tissue at the stem end, it is a sign that the melon was unripe when picked.

When choosing netted-skinned melons (cantaloupes or Persians), the netting should be thick and the color in the spaces yellowish. The scent of ripeness should be evident. Smooth melons (honeydew, casaba, Crenshaw) should yield to slight pressure at the blossom end. Watermelons should be smooth with a creamy rind underneath.

The Crenshaw, which is a hybrid of a Persian and a casaba, has only been with us since the 1940s. It's quite bruisable, hence more expensive, but oh, so good.

I am so excited to think that within a few weeks I'll be able to taste the incredibly sweet little round watermelons of Italy. (I'll have lots of good food reports for you from my upcoming trip.)

The creamy white honeydew has a delicate light green flesh that adds a lovely color to a bowl of assorted melon balls. Such an offering, chilled and served without any sugar or dressing, makes one of the loveliest summer salads that I can describe. Just a squeeze of lemon or lime juice enhances their flavor. And for an appetizer course without equal, a slim wedge of any melon wrapped in a tissue-thin slice of prosciutto (Italian ham) is simply incredibly delicious.

Fruit ideas

After I make melon balls from the watermelon, I take the hollowed half as a serving bowl, I take chunks of melon and whirl them in the blender with ice for a refreshing drink.

Cantaloupe halves filled with strawberries and honey are an old favorite. Sometime try cubing the cantaloupe and tossing it with berries in orange juice for a tizer.

Honeydew halves filled with chicken are a summer luncheon hit.

Whirl three large pitted plums (cut in half) with one or two tablespoons of sugar, a splash of lemon juice and ½ t. vanilla. Pour it over ice cream or yogurt for a refreshing treat.

Make a compote of a pound of sweetened and chunks of two peeled oranges. Pour over a simmered syrup made from ½ c. port wine, 1 T. lemon juice, and some of the orange juice. Chill and then serve for an elegant treat.

For a frosty freezer treat, freeze a quart of milk and several tablespoons of honey. Unwrap banana, spread with the peanut butter and chopped nuts or almonds. Wrap and freeze in slices to serve. This is a favorite with kids.

For a festive appetizer kabob, skewer a melon with a cube of ham and a prawn and serve with a cocktail sauce.

For classic simplicity, dip a whole watermelon in cream or yogurt and then into brown sugar.

Value plus

The great feature about fruit is that it is always available. Fruits are colorful and nutritious. They are truly convenience foods since they require little preparation, and all are relatively inexpensive with a good share of vitamins A and C to boot.

Fruits adapt themselves to appetizers, main dishes, accompaniments, and desserts. Very versatile.

Summer art classes slated for young

The Richmond Art Center is offering a series of quality classes for young people starting June 13. The 10th graders, the Art Center will be the site of the Costa College Foundation's College for Kids.

Puppetry, printmaking, musical instruments, ceramics, theatre jazz dancing, painting and sculpture will be offered.

Classes are scheduled from 9:30 a.m. to 12:30 p.m., Wednesday and Thursday. Students will have full three morning program or select an afternoon session. The first three-week session is June 21-July 1. Session is July 12-28.

In puppetry, students will create their own puppets and perform with them. Printmaking classes include a variety of techniques, with linoleum block printing (grades 7-10).

The drawing and painting class emphasizes the use of individual style.

Students will view slides of work from other cultures to inspire their own work.

In the musical instrument making class, students will learn to make playable instruments. They will include teaching the students how to fire their Raku Kiln to produce iridescent glazes.

For younger children (grades 1-4), an afternoon class will be held on Monday mornings (age 2 1/2 - 5) accompanied by adults.

No-one has the bucks to repair county's roads

By DON McCORMACK

Contra Costa's roads are going to rot and the county does not have enough money to fix them, county Works Director Mike Walford has said.

Over the last two years collapsed and damaged dozens of roads throughout the county, outstripping the county's ability to keep up with repairs, Walford told the Board of Supervisors.

Despite large state and federal grants, Contra Costa is about $4 million short to maintain and build roads, he said.

Some roads damaged this winter will be closed indefinitely because of the shortage, Walford said.

Moreover, because of tax revenue loss from Proposition 13, Contra Costa has fallen far behind on maintenance and new construction, Walford said.

Contra Costa, exclusive of storm damage, should spend $22 million this coming year to maintain and build roads, he said. Public Works is recommending a county spend only $10.5 million.

These figures apply only to roads owned by the county. Cities are responsible for their own road maintenance. City and county roads cover about 2,500 miles.

Normally, Contra Costa shortly will be in another kind of road money, Walford said. The federal government committed itself to spend $630 million over the next five years to build the Highway in Richmond and improve highways 80 and 680.

Supervisors listened sympathetically to Walford's plea, but they had no extra money, he said. Despite program cuts, the county is spending at least $13 million above the budget for road maintenance, but it is a deficit that will probably be made up by more budget cuts.

Although the federal government is spending more on highways, it set a record for March. The state government is paying its deficit into next fiscal year (July). Local politicians, while they state and federal officials for say they do not expect much more. Supervisor Nancy Fahden of Martinez is pushing for a 5-cent-a-gallon tax to repair local roads. This proposal was dropped last year but was dropped when it had a chilly reception in several Bay Area counties.

"We need to enlist public support," Walford said. The board endorsed a priority list for roads drawn up by the Public Works Department. Including in Priority 1, construction this year, soon as possible, were:

• Alhambra Valley Road, between Pinole and Martinez, $225,000.

• Bear Creek Road, near El Sobrante, $30,000.

• Kasa Lane, El Sobrante, $20,000.

• Pinole Valley Road, $150,000.

• San Pablo Avenue, Crockett, $400,000. Carved into a steep hill, this road has collapsed.

• San Pablo Dam Road, four sites near the reservoir, $120,000.

Priority two, construction this year or next spring or summer, includes:

• Hillcrest Road near San Pablo Dam Road, El Sobrante, $50,000.

• Wildcat Canyon Road, four places, behind Kensington, $200,000.

• Hillside Drive, near Castro Ranch Road, El Sobrante, $50,000.

Priorities three and four, when money is available. "It could be years," said Jim Causey, an engineer with the Public Works Department. Included are:

• Los Altos Drive, El Cerrito hills, $100,000.

• Carquinez Scenic Road, between Martinez and Crockett, $400,000. Erosion has damaged the road in at least nine places.

• McEwan Road, between Highway 4 and Port Costa, $300,000.

La Cima Road, located in the El Sobrante hills, is listed in category four without an amount.

"Due to the massive size of slide, cost of repair is indeterminate at this time," the county report says.

Most of La Cima was heavily damaged in a massive slide that forced the evacuation of most of the block. The slide is believed to be still moving. Most of the county slide damage was reported in the Orinda-El Sobrante area. Many of the roads are still passable at reduced speeds.

The priorities are heavily influenced by the federal government, which under several programs funds repairs for heavily traveled or vital roads. Supervisor Tom Powers asked the county staff to help residents served by low-priority roads to deal with federal agencies so their projects might receive higher priority.

In a letter to the board, Major Gen. Roger Peterson of the Defense Logistics Agency in Virginia asked supervisors to "upgrade to the highest priority" Carquinez Scenic Drive, which serves a military fuel depot called Ozol.

Causey of Public Works said the letter would be forwarded to the federal government in the hope of getting money for the road.

Science camp set

Young campers (ages 8-13) can join the Lawrence Hall of Science in its 10th year of teaching science in its summer science camp. There are three camp sessions running from July 17 through August 6.

Campers will be outdoors, exploring a creek, tide-pooling, or hiking at night listening to forest sounds. Older kids can test their endurance on a three-day, 15 mile backpack trip, where they'll cook their own meals and sleep out under the stars. All campers will have time for swimming, singing around the campfire, games, or just loafing.

For information call the Hall at 642-5132 to request a brochure with complete details, or visit LHS on June 9 when a camp orientation meeting will be held at 7 p.m. A limited number of partial camperships are available.

Sewing a fine seam

You can design a wardrobe to suit yourself

By JIM GRODNIK

EL CERRITO—Cynthia Paysinger is a model, dress-store owner and full-time office worker, but her first loves are sewing and fashion design.

Paysinger, who gives classes in both at the El Cerrito Community Center, said, "Sewing is an artistic talent, an art form."

She can sit engrossed at her sewing machine for 12 hours at a stretch. When she's driving her car she's dreaming about fashion design.

As a child of six, Paysinger became fascinated watching her sister sew. When she was 11 she had her own used Singer, and soon began teaching her nieces to sew.

Paysinger, 25, was born in Oakland and has lived in El Cerrito for 21 years. She graduated from San Francisco State University with a degree in home economics.

Her sewing class is intended for children and beginners. "Most parents don't have the time to teach children to sew," she said. The pattern making is for the more advanced student.

She stresses basics colors and basic designs. "What can you wear with a pair of pink hot-pants?" she said.

She teaches her students to make simple patterns and use brown, black, navy and white. At the end of the class, her students will have patterns they can use for a variety of styles, she said.

Paysinger stresses the use of colors. Light colors call attention to themselves, dark colors do not.

She gestured to her simple red blouse: "I'm as skinny as a rail up here." Then she pointed to her black skirt, "and as big as a house down there," she said. To get a proper fit she learned to design her own clothes.

The sewing class costs $19 for four sessions of an hour-and-a-half each. Pattern making is $25 for six sessions. (For information call 525-6747).

Paysinger, who operates the dress store "Cynthia's Fashions by the Bay" out of her El Cerrito home, talks to her machine as she sews — "Oh, come on baby," and curses the fabric — "Don't act like this."

She designs, makes and sells her own clothes. She has directed modeling shows at the Lake Merritt Hotel and the two Holiday Inn in Emeryville.

"I have boxes and boxes of patterns and fabrics at home. I'm a typical seamstress," she said.

Garlic lovers: get your best recipes out

While plans for the Berkeley Garlic Festival are beginning to take shape, dates have been announced for Gilroy Garlic Festival which will take place July 29-31.

Entries are now being accepted for the main highlight of the Gilroy festival, the Great Garlic Recipe Contest and Cook-off. Original fresh garlic recipes for the nationwide competition should be sent to the Great Garlic Recipe Contest and Cook-off, Gilroy Garlic Festival, P. O. Box 2311, Gilroy, CA 95020 before July 11. Seven cash prizes and Garlic Lovers' Cookbooks are offered to the winners.

Creators of the top 10 recipes selected by professional home economists will be expected to come, at their own expense, to the cook-off July 30 at Gavilan College in Gilroy where a panel of food experts will taste and judge the dishes. First prize is $200, second $150, and third $100. All finalists receive a copy of the cookbook, a garlic braid, and can attend the other festival activities as honored guests of the community.

Recipes entered must be original and must specify at least three cloves of fresh garlic or the equivalent in dehydrated form. Contestants may enter as many recipes as they wish. Include name, address, phone number and whether the contestant can attend the cook-off.

A favorite feature of the festival itself is "The Alley" where amateur cooks perform their talents over firepits, turning out garlic-laced delicacies. There will be craft and food booths, performing arts troupes, a bicycle race, hot-air balloons and other activities.

Census Bureau checks childcare

How many children do married women expect to have within the next five years? Will they average the same number as in the recent past? Answers to these questions will help indicate the future growth and composition of the nation's population, data vital to planners in government and private business.

Leo C. Schilling, Director of the Census Bureau's Regional Office in Seattle, announced that information on child care, number of children and birth expectations of American women will be collected during the week of June 20-25, from a sample of households in this area.

The questions are in addition to those usually asked in the monthly survey on employment and unemployment conducted nationwide by the Bureau for the U.S. Department of Labor.

Households in this area are part of the sample of 60,000 across the country scientifically selected to represent a cross section of all U.S. households.

Radio 'hams' plan an emergency test

Local radio hams will test emergency preparedness during the weekend of June 25-26 from 11 a.m. Saturday to 11 a.m. Sunday.

Members of the East Bay Amateur Radio Club will participate in the 47th annual American Radio Relay League Field Day emergency preparedness test.

On this weekend, thousands of amateur radio operators (hams) in the United States and Canada will set up their stations in the open using only emergency power and portable antennas. They contact as many operators as possible in the 24 hour period.

These tests are designed to help hams refine the operating skills necessary during times of emergency when normal channels of communication are disrupted or unavailable.

The operation site will be in Richmond on Hilltop Mall Road between Robert H. Miller Drive and Shane Drive. Use of the site by courtesy of Chevron Land and Development Co. The public is invited.

Proud night for RUSD

Contest winners honored

By DON McCORMACK

The Richmond Unified school board assigned itself a pleasant task recently — awarding honors to students who won math and oratorical contests.

Parents and teachers beamed with pride as the students, primed and smiling, came to the podium to accept the awards from the board.

Among the winners was Absalom Sims, a junior at El Cerrito High School.

In a low voice, almost shyly, he thanked the board, started back to his seat but was coaxed back by the board to repeat the speech that won him first-place at the Fourth Annual Conference on Educational and Social Concerns of Black People, held in Los Angeles.

From a whisper Sims' voice boomed almost into baritone range. Turning to the board, the staff and the audience, he traced in stirring words the history of the Constitution, the promise it held for blacks, the promises it failed to deliver to blacks. He finished to rousing applause from the audience.

Also honored for their oratorical skills were Dina Brown, second place winner at the state contest; Ekeshia Francois of Coronado Elementary School, second place winner, Northern California; Tamara Green of Kennedy High School, second place, Northern California; and Israel Sims (brother of Absalom) of Portola Junior High, second place, Northern California. The students participated in a contest sponsored by the California Alliance of Black School Educators.

Four students from Hercules Elementary School won honors in the Alameda and Contra Costa Mathematics Contest.

Perfect scores and first place awards were won by Hai Nguyen and John Parker. Mike Fukatsu and Ken Kuni-sake, who landed near perfect scores, were second place winners. Amin Vahdat of Crespi Junior High School also 100 percent and won a first-place prize.

Service academies announce openings

Young men and women interested in seeking nominations to the U.S. Air Force, Merchant Marine, Military and Naval Academies should apply no later than Dec. 1, 1983 for the class entering in June 1984.

Candidates must be citizens of the United States, legal residents of the State of California, unmarried and have no children, and be at least 17 years of age, but not past their 22nd birthday on July 1 of the year of admission.

Selections are based on SAT or ACT scores, class rank, grade point average, school records, extracurricular activities, leadership potential, motivation and recommendations.

Young people seeking nominations should write to Senator Pete Wilson, United States Senate, Washington, D.C. 20510.

Art center honors county photographers

The Contra Costa Alliance for the Arts and the Richmond Art Center will be the location for an annual open competition for artists.

The subject of this second annual competition is photography. A reception and preview will be held on Thursday, June 16 from 7-9 p.m. The presentation will be at 8 p.m.

Monday, June 15:
 You may become involved in fun activities this year which challenge both your mental and physical skills. Your health, as well as your attitude, will benefit.
 GEMINI (May 21-June 20):
 You'll let others get you off-track today if your doing things is producing good results. Your tactics may be fruitless.
 CANCER (June 21-July 22):
 Budget-minded today and try to limit your needs. If there are no real bargains, wait until another day (July 23-Aug. 22).
 You should be rather lucky today in gaining the upper hand over your newest interest. However, be sure to oversell.
 VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22):
 Although you may feel a need to assert yourself, you may be not to assume control of a situation. Another day (Sept. 23-Oct. 23).
 In the day you'll perform well if you have your wits about you. But if you try to maintain your evening you may fail.
 SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22):
 You will go high today if you operate in accord with your high standards. Don't be influenced by someone's low level.
 TAURUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21):
 Generally, you may not be able to please everyone you encounter today, regardless of how hard you try. Just know you've done your best.
 CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19):
 You could be a rather profitable day, provided you depart from your tested business procedure. You may go away.
 AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19):
 Make agreements with great care today so you will be able to honor your commitments. Do not make terms which appear doubtful.
 PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20):
 Your objectives are clearly defined, and you are capable of outstanding achievements today. In advance what you you hope to accomplish.
 ARIES (March 21-April 19):
 Do not the right day to mix business and pleasure. Keep social situations light and breezy, avoiding commercial proposals.
 TAURUS (April 20-May 20):
 Material prospects look encouraging today. There is a possibility you'll ignore your best. Be a go-getter.
